

How to holiday like the style set for summer 2026

From secluded Scottish beaches to beautiful Balinese hotels — Style's favourite tastemakers have opened up their secret holiday address books just for you

Frazzled? Time poor? In need of a holiday? Sometimes the hardest part is deciding where to go, so we asked some of the most fabulous names around where they return to time and again. From Douglas Stuart's tip for group trips to Donatella Versace's favourite sailing spot, here are the recommendations you won't find anywhere else. Passports at the ready.

Rejina Pyo

Fashion designer

Rejina Pyo; Nirjhara hotel, Bali

GETTY IMAGES

The Tabanan region of southwest Bali is a wonderful area to go to disconnect. It feels like a very different side of the island: quieter, greener and deeply connected to nature. Nirjhara is one of my favourite hotels anywhere. It's beautifully understated, with contemporary architecture that blends effortlessly into the jungle and rice paddies; there's a waterfall running through the property. I also love heading to Kedungu beach for a simple coffee or fresh coconut after an early morning walk — you can watch the surfers too.